BROOKLYN MAN WANTS MARRY SWAMP BABY'S MOTHER

HAS MANY CHANCES OF HELP

Leah Silver, Bailed by Friends, Goes Away to Rest and Recuperate

New York, July 18.—"Please consider this an honest proposal of marriage. I can offer you and little Ruth a good home."

This was one of several letters received by Leah Silver, unwed girl mother of sixteen-month-old Baby Ruth, who was abandoned in a marsh at Coney Island last week. It came from the Brownsville section of Brooklyn, and was investigated by Captain George Busby of the Coney Island station, who found that the letter was written in earnest.

The Lynn girl cannot consider proposals of marriage at the moment. She is now in Harbor Hospital, Bath Beach, awaiting the birth of her second child. She was released from custody after her bail was reduced from $5,000 to $2,500. The bond was immediately furnished by an unidentified sympathizer.

A letter was received today from a woman in Colorado, who offered to take little Ruth Silver on her ranch. The letter was shown to her, who declared she would bring Leah back here.

RELIEF FROM SPYING.

For the first time since the unhappy mother of "The Swamp Baby" had been a prisoner in the hospital, she had a happy moment when she was told that new-found bond had supplied bail.

"Oh! Then I will have relief from having every move watched by the police. It has been terrible not to be able to leave my bed to get a drink of water. I have not been able to get a breath of fresh air since I was brought here."

"Now, of course, I am a prisoner as well as a patient, but it makes my troubles doubly hard to have no privacy in my present condition."

HEARD OTHER BABIES.

"I can't have my baby Ruth in with me, but I have been kept awake all night with the crying of other babies in the room right next to the public ward."

The intense heat seemed to aggravate her weakness.

Mrs. Marie Mahon, probation officer, gave the information which led to Leah's arrest. It is said that while investigating another case that took place in the Kings County House, last Wednesday, she overheard a woman say to another:

"That is little Ruth Silver in that crib."

Mrs. Mahon questioned the speaker and made sure of the identity of the abandoned child.

FIRST PICTURE OF LEAH SILVER AND HER BABY

HUSBAND SEES MRS. PHILLIPS IN JAIL

By Associated Press.

Los Angeles, July 18.—A coroner jury found Mrs. Clara Phillips responsible for the death of Mr. Albert Meadows, who was slain with hammer and rocks, and the law having had its way with the slaying arrested and committed her to see her husband. A. L. Phillips, for the first time since he was arrested.

The meeting, which took place in the slayer's first wife's apartment, Phillips, his wife and counsel later had a conference. The attorney issued a statement saying the circumstances of Mrs. Meadows' death as presented to the public thus far were incomplete and asking that judgment be suspended until the entire matter had been brought out in court.

Phillips' attorneys have waited their defense would be in equity.

The inquest verdict was based chiefly upon the testimony of Mrs. Peggy Caffrey, that she accompanied Mrs. Meadows and Mrs. Phillips on the drive last Wednesday which terminated in the tragedy.

She declared that Mrs. Phillips accused Mrs. Meadows of adultery as a motive for Phillips' act of violence. A woman in a white dress, who was with Mrs. Meadows, declared that this was not true and that Mrs. Phillips resembled a woman with whom she had drawn from under her cape, Mrs. Caffrey.

The bank where Mrs. Meadows was employed, gave to the district attorney's office a statement that the time and watch had been given to Mrs. Meadows.

Phillips also received in settlement of a claim against a street railway company for the death of her husband eleven months ago.

LEAH SILVER AND RUTH

The unwedded mother of the famous "Swamp Baby" has been made doubly happy by being freed under bail from the police surveillance which was maintained over her in a Brooklyn hospital.

Leah has named the father of the first child, Baby Ruth, whom she abandoned in New York, and who was rescued in a Coney Island swamp, as a sailor in the U. S. navy. Thus far, however, she has refused to name the second man who became acquainted with the girl while in Lynn on her husband, and who is becoming acquainted with the girl while in Lynn on her husband, and who is becoming acquainted with the girl while in Lynn on her husband.

Although approximately 15,000 strikers and others were added to the list of strikers yesterday, no further concessions to the strikers were expected at least until after the meeting of the maintenance of the railroad and Columbus Park to be held in the afternoon.

Work is to start August 1. The mayor sent out a letter to the strikers to the effect that the Civil Service Commission for confirmation as trustee of the Bureau of Statistics.

Flapper Finds Beauty Shop Great Place to Hear Marital Woes

FLAPPER FLITS TO NEW JOB

You wind the hair on rollers, poke it into a moistened tub, and put it on to steam. At the end of three or four hours you're a Mary Pickford. Baskin's snail's dry crust, anyhow.

By THE FLAPPER.

If the powder patters in the beauty shops wanted to take on a side line they could put the secret service out of business.

There's nothing a bright girl can't learn about a dame if she only gets her in a beauty booth often enough. There's something about a well applied permanent wave that inspires confidence. A woman who wouldn't tell her age to her own mother will unburden her soul to the beauty doctor while her hair is being souped.

Take the lady with the long, wavy hair.

She sailed into Martin's Beauty Shop in Washington street, she said, "I want to have my hair done."

WINNERS IN BOSTON AMERICAN'S GREAT $5,000 FAMOUS TITLES TEST ANNOUNCED IN THURSDAY'S AMERICAN

MARILYN FEELS OF JACK'S SHY COURTSHIP AT GREAT NECK, L. I.

ANSWERS BILLIE BURKE ON WEEK-END PARTIES

"What he said, because he spoke only a few words and stepped aside while other guests were introduced. And, much to my disappointment, he continued to stay apart from me that day, whether by design or accident, I could not say."

JACK WAS BARBIFUL.

"I must confess I gazed at him from our group all that Sunday. I wanted so much to talk things over and to ask him about my late husband. I wanted to know how they met and why Frank loved him so. But he was always beyond reach. I recalled what Frank said about his shy manner. He was quite bashful the day of our first meeting."

"He flattered on the sidelines. I noticed him gazing my way now and then and smiled at him. I liked him even so much at close range. I liked his smart appearance. Jack has style. He has excellent taste in his clothes. Frank Carter did too. Frank was a model in appearance. He knew what to wear and how to wear it. Jack Pickford in the same."

"And I was struck by Jack's resemblance to Frank. Carter did too. Jack had just as black as Frank's hair and his eyes are large, but grey instead of black. Frank's were more like black. I liked the mild expression of Jack's face and the rather and expression of his eyes at times. "I like young men of buoyant, athletic build, and especially dark-complexioned young men. And I liked Jack before I ever met him because of the nice things Frank Carter had told me about him. As I look back at it, the fact that my dear husband was so fond of Jack made me like him."

"Jack lost no time, in spite of his shyness, in turning that fondness for him into love. It was the oddest sort of a courtship that he started the very next day. You know that, like Norma, I was 'in it with flowers.' Well, Jack launched his suit with flowers. "The next day there was delivered to my dressing room an old-fashioned bouquet, sort of those kind with long streamers. I hunted for the card, but there wasn't any card. The same kind of old-fashioned bouquet came next day and the next day and every day for a week, and every one like the first, was unlabelled. My curiosity was aroused."

START OF ROMANCE.

"It was not until Thursday that one of the girls in the show told me the mystery bouquet were being sent by Jack Pickford. Then I put two and two together. I recalled that Jack had been to the show three times that week and sat in the very front row and the third time he came with his mother."

"Sypho-Nathol ends garbage smells"

"I used to dread to lift the lid of the garbage can. It was the only housekeeping duty I ever thoroughly disliked. And besides, Dr. Bell's lecture at our Civic Club on Home Sanitation made me realize how dangerous to family health unprotected garbage receptacles can be. He explained how germ-carrying flies breed there so rapidly."

"That's how I discovered Sypho-Nathol, or rather, Clara Peabody discovered it for me. She had been using it for a long time in her house."

"I wouldn't think of using anything else," she said, when I talked to her. "We have tried so many other things. Not one of them was nearly so satisfactory. There either had a perfectly horrible smell or were poisonous, or were too bothersome to mix."

"Sypho-Nathol is different. It is so easy to prepare—one teaspoonful in a quart of warm water makes a clean-smelling, peppy, grey solution that is ready for immediate use."

"Sypho-Nathol is sure—just rinse out the garbage can with the solution, sprinkle it in every day, and the flies won't come near."

"Sypho-Nathol is safe—455 times stronger than carbolic acid—yet so more dangerous to have in the house than a cake of scouring soap."

"Sypho-Nathol has so many important household uses—for the water that destroys germs; for sprinkling in drains, musciciding corners, as a flush for toilet bowls and for wiping around bath-room floors and fixtures—in fact, wherever absolutely germ-free, odorless cleanliness is desired."

"Sypho-Nathol is efficient, easy to use and economical. It comes in four handy sizes, 15c, 35c, 65c, $1.50. If you have never used it, phone your grocer to include a bottle in your order. Either he or your druggist can supply you. If not, he can get it easily. Ask for it by the name—'Sypho-Nathol'."

PICKFORD AND MARILYN MILLER

Miss Miller says her fiancé is a daredevil rider. This photograph was taken while she was visiting him at Belmont Park, where Pickford is riding against professional jockeys while making his new film, "Garrison's Finest." This is the first picture Jack Pickford has made since his wife, Olive Thomas, died in Paris three years ago. Marilyn Miller herself is an expert horsewoman.

"You think you'd care about wearing it?" "We looked at each other like two school kids, then I kissed Jack."

"Would I wear it? I was in love with Jack, just as head over heels in love with him as he showed he was with me and I felt pride and pleasure when he kissed me on my engagement finger."

"And that's the official version of how Jack Pickford proposed."

"Billy Burke, defending his right to his interference in my affairs, is quoted as saying 'Well, it was what happened at Great Neck'."

"Well, that's what happened at Great Neck. What happened at Great Neck was that our husband to be, Jack Pickford, proposed."

Main or Stuffed Queen Olives are Green Olives

What are green olives? Queen olives are green olives.

Of course, you know what queen olives are. But do you know that they can be grown only near Seville, Spain? For there is found the only combination of soil and climate in the world that permits this delicious fruit to grow to an eatable size before ripening.

It is the Spanish Green—or queen—Olive that has become the most famous of appetizers. The delightfully piquant flavor tempts laggard appetites. The salty tang and firm, meaty body of the fruit appeals to a hunger that can be satisfied only with green olives.

The olive oil in green olives is good for you. Grown-ups and children alike may eat all they want. And there are many delightful ways to serve green olives—in salads and sandwiches, as garnishes, or by themselves.

Spanish Green Olives—either plain or stuffed with Spanish sweet peppers—would be a treat at dinner tonight. Buy a bottle or two and take them home.

POOR MAN WORST VICTIM OF REPUBLICAN HIGH TARIFF BILL

um and weep! We mean the tariff jumps contained in the Republican new tariff bill. The table on which of Public B. Darned sets his breakfast (under the new bill) advances 133 p. c. and he himself hasn't a leg to stand on. It's the same with the rest of his breakfast machinery—the measure provides for a substantial tariff boost. Public faces new problems like these all day, throughout the rest of his day. Blame it on the Republican Senators. If you don't like the proposed rises in tariff—tell your Senator about it. Fast.

FIGHT TO BAN OF RICH AT NAHANT

What is sauce for the tourist is most emphatically NOT sauce for the residents of Nahant. When the Nahant selectmen passed an ordinance prohibiting tourists from parking cars along the beautiful Nahant avenue for more than ten minutes, there was no great feeling about it among residents of the town.

These are divided into classes—those who have estates and those who have homes. It was the selectmen who backed the new traffic law. Nahant is one of the most beautiful places on the North Shore. People come from afar to enjoy its glorious beach. This interferes with the privacy of the estates.

Today, on beautiful "Party Steps" beach, signs appeared reading, "No Parking Here." These were put up by owners of estates.

Residents immediately got into touch with Selectmen Charles A. Phillips and Harry C. Wilson, who were responsible for the new traffic law, and demanded to know whether the signs were authorized.

They were informed that the signs were gratuitously erected, and could not bar residents from enjoying the beach.

In the meantime, Selectman Leon M. Delano, who opposed the new traffic law, had been leaning with favor to plans for an organized protest against what is termed "the un-democratic establishment of the wealthy estate owners."

Arraigned on the steps of the other two selectmen are Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, whose estate, "East Point," is one of the most beautiful on the North Shore; his daughter-in-law, Mrs. George C. Lodge; Dr. Martin Luther, Robert Averill, C. C. Aldrich, Francis R. Bangs, Jacob C. Bess, F. W. Bradley, B. D. Lee, Elberton James, Thomas Fulham Curtis, Michael Outcassene and Mrs. Curtis Gould.

B.A.M. BRIDGES UNSAFE IS LAWRENCE CLAIM

Lawrence, July 18.—As a result of an automobile crashing through the railroad may be compelled by the city to spend thousands in the replacement of certain bridges on Route 100, Lowell and Salem streets. City Solicitor Daniel J. Murphy was authorized to take such steps as are necessary to compel this action.

Mayor Daniel W. Mahoney scored the railroad and declared: "It is ridiculous to allow the railroad to have these wooden bridges. My fear is that some day a heavy truck will go through the Lowell street bridge."

CHARTER FAILS STATE PROBE TO APPEAR IN COURT DISASTER

Taunton, July 18.—Victor F. Charter, who swore out a warrant against his wife, Mrs. Edith Cherry Leonard Charter, charging her with leaving her first husband, whom she thought died during the war, returned to her last week failed to appear in the district court today to prosecute his case.

Attorney John E. Welch, who represents Charter, told Judge Frederic E. Austin that his client had been shown up by the state and the warrant. Attorney John F. Sullivan, counsel for the girl, asked that the case be dismissed.

Judge Austin refused to dismiss the case, and after ordering it continued for one week said: "This is a very serious complaint, which we should give the law a full chance, and for that reason the case is continued for one week."

Chloe, July 18.—With the work of cleaning up the flood-stricken district of Whittemans well under way, chief interest turned today to the task of fixing responsibility for the conditions that allowed the bursting of the dams at Longwell and Roberts' ponds, and the pouring of many millions of gallons of water on the sleeping village, with property loss estimated at half a million dollars or more.

Huddling speedily to the emergency, organized relief agencies, including Chicago municipal departments and the Red Cross, are carrying on, in an orderly and effective manner, the work inaugurated as a member of the disaster board.

Mayor Joseph M. Grise this morning went into conference with City Solicitor J. H. Haffey for a discussion of every legal phase of the situation. The mayor will, he says, leave the task of tracing the blame, if any, for the conditions at the dams, wholly in the hands of the insurance and it seems likely that some time will be required for a thorough investigation.

FORFEITURE OF HOOTCH ASKED

United States Attorney Robert O. Harris today filed an information in the Federal court seeking the forfeiture of the government of eighty-six cases of whiskey which were seized by customs officials at New Bedford on May 12 last.

The liquor in question, according to Attorney Harris, were seized by the Federal officials in a compartment on the schooner William H. Davis, which is at New Bedford. The compartment contained 150 cases when sealed, but some of the property was stolen from the schooner about July 12, according to the Federal attorney.

The liquor which was stolen was taken after the government seal on the compartment was broken. Attorney Harris states that he does not know who took the liquor, which amounted to thirty-four cases.

The Federal attorney asks that all persons interested in the liquor appear in court and give sufficient reason why the liquor should not be forfeited to the government.

HEARING ON ROXBURY BANK PETITION

The Board of Bank Incorporation has assigned Tuesday, August 22, for the hearing on the third petition for the establishment of the Roxbury Savings Bank, in the Roxbury district. Bank Commissioner Allen has twice rejected the petition, saying that the real estate syndicate of Harding, Cox and Martin "was not qualified to operate a savings bank."

SHEVLIN PROVES HE'S PERRY'S MASTER

Eddie Sherlin is still the Great Master!
Displaying brilliant ability as a boxer and hitting with great power and perfect direction, Roxbury's ring idol got revenge on Jack Perry at the Arena A. C.'s show at the Boston Arena.

Shevlin won each of the ten rounds. At no stage of the bout was he in the least danger. He rocked left hooks against Perry's body, smashal right-hand socks to the same part of the well-known anatomy, and then lifted left hooks male.

Perry swung enough haymakers to knock out a couple of regiments of fighters. They kept whizzing through the ozone from the first right through the tenth round.

But not a single right hand blow landed cleanly. A few of them hit

Jack Conway has smashed the Jack Perry hoodoo into tiny bits.

Eddie Shetlin's decisive victory over Perry at the Boston Arena was a wonderful vindication of Jack's keen judgment of boxers.

Shevlin high on the jaw. Most of them, however, went whirling around Shevlin's neck, were blocked or just fanned the air as Dartmouth Eddie stepped out of the danger zone.

Those knoekers, who claimed that they had never seen a man lose a couple of decisions to Perry in previous meetings, received both a verbal and a physical lesson. A system cloured of bolts he can use to get the best of you.

This writer took a little personal dislike to the fellow who had dictated our judgement in the Roxbury man's skill and general class as being "too good to lose." He real condition, we picked him to win the fight. He was a good fighter.

We didn't agree with those people who said that the fight was a better fighter than bold. After watching the Dartmouth boxing instructor, we pronounced him physical and mental a good fighter.

When the fight was over, the man, who had been told that he was a fighter, Jack insisted that Shelby's defeats were merely the result of bolts and a system cloured of bolts and a system cloured of bolts.

Some Change, Isn't It?

Change Not Only on the Outside, It is INSIDE. Written on the Human Heart.

Copyright, 1922, Hearst Co.

The first picture at the top of this page shows how it was, in thousands of places, on tens of thousands of corners in big cities, in little towns, only a few years ago. You see the picture, a saloon where men exchanged hard-earned money for pot-ash, for whiskey that first took health, then wealth, then honor.

You see the faces at the saloon door, the mother looking over the top, the children underneath. The father is there, spending, laughing, being a "good fellow."

The wife does not dare call to him, the children dare not speak. For whiskey makes men impatient, it makes them quick, makes them UGLY.

They say nothing, but wait and hope that HE upon whom they depend, and upon whom they have THEIR RIGHT to depend, will come out to them soon.

These two pictures are taken from the July number of HEARST'S INTERNATIONAL MAGAZINE. They are pictures that every American man and woman know, but the picture of "Yesterday," thank God, has been wiped off the slate of American life, NEVER TO RETURN.

In the second picture, "Today," you see the same mother, the same children, the same father, as in the picture of "Yesterday."

But HOW DIFFERENT are mother, father and children. For whiskey that burned up health, life and money, for whiskey that separated the father from his family, made him cruel, angry, that made him a FAILURE, there has been substituted what you see in the second picture, from the same article in HEARST'S INTERNATIONAL MAGAZINE.

Fear and anxiety have been replaced by family happiness and complete UNION.

The father goes for his pleasure, taking his wife and his children with him, to picture instructive and entertaining. And the GREATEST part of his pleasure is the happiness of the wife and children.

What a change, what a revolution, and what a REVELATION.

The victim of whiskey, the despair of his family, the man on the downhill road, is the new man, the happy father. The false inspiration of whiskey has been replaced by the beautiful inspiration of home life, of the united family, of pleasure in common.

If you printed a picture of a cannibal feast on one side of this page, and on the other side a picture of a modern, happy family dinner party, your contrast would be no greater than in the two pictures reproduced here from HEARST'S INTERNATIONAL MAGAZINE.

The man who is interested in prohibition and its results should read in HEARST'S INTERNATIONAL MAGAZINE for JULY the article by Dr. Woods Hutchinson, entitled "Prohibition Has Made Good."

Whatever your opinion as to man's weaknesses, and any concessions that should be made to them, and whatever your opinion as to the theory of light beer and light wine as compared with total prohibition—WHATEVER views you may have had in the past, or may have today, you will admit, with Dr. Hutchinson, that prohibition HAS made good.

It has made GOOD MEN, it has made HAPPY FAMILIES, it has above all made an END OF THE SALOON. It is no longer a hideous, gnawing cancer in the life of this nation.

Concerning absolute prohibition or relative prohibition, or a modified Volstead act, people may change their minds more or less. There may be discussions, and there may be changes here and there—no man can say.

But this is sure, THE SALOON HAS GONE TO JOIN SLAVERY, CANNIBALISM AND THE OTHER BRUTALITIES IN THE LIMBO OF THE PAST.

The nation no longer shares in the profits made by manufacturing and retailing whiskey to any man weak enough to drink it.

The government no longer derives revenues from a business that has ruined millions of families, and wrote the word GRIEF AND PAIN AND WANT on the hearts of women and children.

If you want facts and statistics, illustrated by the admirable pictures by John Sloan reproduced here, if you know of anybody that needs an article dealing with the prohibition subject earnestly, without bias, scientifically and intelligently, get HEARST'S INTERNATIONAL MAGAZINE FOR JULY, and read out the article on Pages 81, 82, 83 and 84.

It's a Big Country We Own

Copyright, 1922, Hearst Co.

French fliers left Paris early in the morning, flew "all around France" against wind and rain. They got back in the evening having covered 1,250 miles. One once thought it marvelous for a train to go from New York to Chicago in twenty hours.

You realize the bigness of this country when reminded that a straight trip from New York to Chicago is almost as far as a trip "all around France." That country could be comfortably stowed away inside the borders of Texas. A Frenchman would say, "Yes, which proves that bigness is not everything." The French have a beautiful country and are a great nation. That's a good combination.

Cutting the Lawn

ONLY THE WEAK LET MONEY TURN THE HEART COLD

By Winifred Black

BILL HAYWOOD, the Radical, is in Russia. He has a concession from the Russian Soviet Government—and he intends to work coal mines and factories, and to do that, he is going to import into Russia about five thousand American workers. Mr. Haywood is the man who was so much interested in labor conditions and never was satisfied with what employers do or tried to do for employees. Wasn't he under indictment for stirring up labor troubles when he left this country? Whatever you think of him or don't think of him—whether you believe in his principles or don't believe in them—how interesting it's going to be to watch Mr. Haywood and what happens to him and his views on capital and labor—if he becomes a capitalist himself! Perhaps he never will. Perhaps he really doesn't want money and wouldn't know what to do with it if he had it. Perhaps he thinks more of the common good of all than he does of his own property. Maybe he'd just as soon live in a four-room apartment at the top of a steep flight of stairs in one of those flat houses where everybody has to push a button before you can open the front door—and where the back windows look out upon the back of the next door neighbor's head. Well, like so many puffed and swollen ghosts—to live in a real comfortable garage, with two or three automobiles in the garage and three or four servants to wait on him. Perhaps he's really dead in earnest when he says he doesn't want anything that the poorest of his brother men cannot have. Just the same, it will be very interesting to observe Mr. Haywood—and what happens if he begins to get rich. Money is a strange thing—sometimes it seems almost as if there was something actually poisonous about it. And the strangest part of it is that it does not affect those who have had it for a long time as badly as it appears to affect the newly rich. People who have been rich for years are apt to be generous. People who are just getting rich are almost sure to be stingy. But rich people are usually less generous in proportion to their means than the poor. If it wanted to borrow one hundred dollars tomorrow to pay a hospital fee, I think I would ask a friend in moderate circumstances, rather than a rich man.

The Voice of New England

Rents Going Up

Editor Boston American:

As you have always stood by the poor people, will you kindly tell me why it is that the landlords are raising the rents? Miss has been raised several times in the past year and the first of July I was raised again. With wages cut, can you tell me how a poor man is to get along? As your paper is always on the square, try and help the poor tenants.

A CONSTANT READER.

Got a Thrill

Editor Boston American:

Once in a great while somebody says something or does something so clean and fine that it causes a thrill. I never expected to get a thrill from any letters published by your paper in the "Voice of New England" column, but I did when I read one on Mr. Hays and the World. I won't alter it by a word. It was absolutely true.

MOVIE FAN.

A Boomerang

Editor Boston American:

My satirical outburst which you published recently has boomeranged with a vengeance. In fairness, however, I think you should publish the fact that I am not "Pro-Franchise" or "Pro" anything else. I was born an Englishman, but now I am an American citizen. I believe the friendship of the Englishman is greatly to be desired, and I deeply deplore the foolish hatred some supposed Americans are endeavoring to cultivate. Any opposition to which is labeled "British propaganda." I have the faith and the hope that their efforts will prove unavailing and that Charity and the real America may prove their undoing.

JOHN CHARITY.

Hays and Arbuckle

Editor Boston American:

Moving picture producers never have been thought very high class or intelligent, but they never did anything as astute as when they hired Will Hays to act as their spokesman. He gets no voice of mine as he has no stands between me and the pictures of Fatty Arbuckle that I want to see. I am good and sore about that. No member of my family has been to movie show in nearly two months and we used to go regularly. I nearly have hysterics every time I see his name in the paper and read what he says. I hope the public helping to get better pictures and that censorship is not necessary because public opinion is the final judge.

ARLINGTON.

American Teacher

Editor Boston American:

I want to inform "An American Teacher" that the teacher who wrote objecting to the English teacher telling us what way we should conduct our teaching here in America is an American and was not constant in the coming of this stranger. There is a clique in most of our institutions here who want America to be guided by their English brethren. Most Americans know this very clearly. A TEACHER.

First, you have to get the approval of said commission before you can get a job, then before you get your pay, you once again have to have their say so. Pretty long distance from "home rule."

You return from a country vacation. To conclude, when your ending is done, That, though you got some recreation, The mosquitoes had most of the fun.

Gladiator and Shadow! Many parts of Boston were reduced by the visitors to the N. E. A. convention. One of the most startling contrasts observed was the classic splendor of its mingling rows of fashionable apartment houses and aristocratic mansions. The latter, in the rear, setting on Charles street, were again rows of two-story houses, struggling against one another for perpendicularity.

They say that department heads at City Hall have speeded up their work. For example, in the case of not waiting time over the telephone bell ring on the desk of the head of one of the largest departments, "Reels" said the commissioners' messenger mind the hourglass, let's get down to business. This may sound rough, but it saves valuable time.

A Back Bay society lady told her friend that when she alone at a hotel she not only hires the room occupied by her, but also the room above and below as on each side of her, so that she will not be disturbed. Her maid-mate friends say that "she snores like fury."

Garrett P. Serviss on Gravity

By Garrett P. Serviss

"Does the ceaseless cooling of the earth and moon, altering as I believe it does, the mass weight of these two bodies of greatly varying bulk, cause any change in their gravitational relationship?"—J. B. New York.

Not as to the total pull between them. Neither does it alter the "mass weight" as you say. The cooling and shrinking (which may long ago have increased the moon's bulk, though continuing with the earth) do not affect the total mass. The mass of the earth increases, but the same quantity of matter contained in a smaller bulk has the same gravitational force as when it was more expanded.

If the earth were compressed to a ball 4,000 miles in diameter, the pull of 4,000 miles upon the moon would be unaltered but the weight of bodies on the earth's surface would become four times as great as before, owing to the shortening of the distance between them and the centre of gravity. The tides could not be lower.
